

The Daily Pitch points:

- The Daily draws on the unrivaled quality and expertise of The New York Times global newsroom of almost 1,500 journalists.
- The Daily has a mission to tell stories more deeply — and to incorporate a new kind of transparency into the way those stories are told. It emphasizes how the unique approach of The Daily provides listeners with an intimate and human look at the news, offering them a deeper understanding of the world that is necessary in these fast-changing times.
- The Daily has become popular and beloved by its listeners because it provides an understanding of the news that they can't get the same way elsewhere. Host Michael Barbaro and the show's producers work tirelessly to provide a thoughtful and human look inside the important stories of the day. The richness of their report hooks listeners instantly and draws them to tune-in every day. It helps people who are looking to make sense of all that's going on in the world right now.
- Not only does The Daily offer listeners deeply reported analysis of the day's most pressing stories, the show allows its audience to get to know New York Times reporters and understand exactly what's required for them to get the full story.
- The Daily has quickly found itself the subject of constant conversation, including an appreciation in The New Yorker praising its "companionable, confiding, and congenial" tone. Host Michael Barbaro has been the subject of a BuzzFeed listicle, a guest on Late Night with Seth Meyers, and the recipient of thousands of dotting tweets.
- The Daily has won a prestigious 2018 Alfred I. duPont-Columbia University Award, being recognized for the strength of its "reporting, storytelling and impact in the public interest." "The Daily gives listeners a seat at the table with Times reporters, raising the journalistic bar and inspiring a wave of imitators," noted Columbia Journalism School in a press release.

Testimonials:

"Democracy is important, and The New York Times makes us feel that someone cares in making sure it stays alive in the U.S. and the world."

-----

"I appreciate that you always ask those questions that I want to ask, like 'Who is that person?' and 'Why is that significant?' At the end of an episode, I feel that I have enough information about the whole picture that it makes sense, it has context and I can retain it."

-----

"Your interviews have made me cry and laugh and feel inspired and angry. I have even changed my opinion on several topics because of I things I have heard on The Daily."

-----

"The Daily is a new form of journalism, delivered flawlessly and consistently day after day. The engagement it reaches and the emotional involvement it achieves is unique."

-----

"In the age of tweets and sound bites, the depth you provide on issues is vital."

-----

"You do a great job of adding a human element to the issues and aren't afraid to say you don't know something — that is truly rare these days."

-----

"You've introduced me to what real journalism is. You consistently bring in people who are in the trenches and really have a commitment to reporting the news."

-----

"The Daily gives a good amount of time to each story, which I like because then people and laws are explained while the new information is presented. It's as if I'm being educated and keeping up with the news at the same time, which, for me, is much more beneficial. The Daily doesn't just add in credibility, it shows it, put it front and center."

-----

"I appreciate bite size chunks with enough substance that I can chew them over all day. A deeper dive than just the news headlines."

-----

"I am loving The Daily. It is informative, relevant, focused, concise, factual, and thought provoking. To me, this is how news should be."

-----

"Intimate, informative, and persuasive. Thanks for helping me better understand our complicated world."

-----

"You have made me smarter; given me the ability to talk more intelligently on subjects; have broadened my understanding on complex topics; and given me a snapshot of everything current."

-----

"I really like Michael's sort of light, open, smart way of asking questions. He asks the questions as if he is one of my friends. And I LOVE LOVE LOVE having access to all these amazing incredibly knowledgeable New York Times columnists, journalist and sources whose by-lines I have seen for years.”